The picture on the back cover is by Peter Moxham of the Sydney Sun and shows demonstrators at Sydney Harbour protesting the USS Buchanan and the John Young on 8 March 1985. The USS Buchanan was the ship the United States used to challenge New Zealand's nuclear port ban and assert its policy of neither confirming nor denying the presence of nuclear weapons on its ships and airplanes (NCND). See p. 55 of this issue for an article by Gary Brown, "NCND Nevermore: Death of a Cover Story," which points out that since it is now known that both the United States and the Soviet Union have the technology to detect the presence of nuclear weapons, the NCND policy can no longer be justified by a military need for secrecy—and the real reason for the NCND policy has been and is to deceive our anti-nuclear allies.
